

The St. Louis Business Diversity Initiative's leadership program is designed to address the interests and challenges of professionals of color as they work to develop and advance their careers. Participants in our program are Black, Latino, Asian & Native American, and other ethnic minorities. The Initiative Fellows program features a holistic approach that creates a safe and stimulating environment for participants to receive valuable feedback, self-reflect on the feedback, acquire effective leadership strategies and build relationships essential to their individual and collective growth. This is a program for which a participant must be nominated.

The leadership program for professionals of color is:

- The Initiative Fellows Program for mid to senior level professionals.

Overview

The Initiative Fellows Program establishes a framework to enhance leadership capacity. The program further refines leadership competencies through a strategic curriculum and the sharing of wisdom and best practices. We focus on three main categories:

- ◆ Professional Development: in an open yet safe environment, participants reflect on their goals, performance and operating style, and how they adapt to varied workplace cultures;
- ◆ Relationship Building: program forums, social events and conferences where the full range of Fellows program participants foster the formation of a supportive professional and personal network essential to the success of one's long-term growth and development; and
- ◆ Civic Engagement: through volunteer and civic activities, professionals sharpen and hone their skills, expand their relationships and deepen their connection with the broader community.

Timeframe

Program participants meet monthly for one year.
